

Enjoy a stroll or cycle in our local woods and heaths, or take a walk along our long distance paths.

Paston Way The 22 mile route, between Cromer and North Walsham takes its name from the Paston Family, the wealthy and dominant Medieval and Tudor landowners, who wrote the famous Paston Letters. From St Nicholas church, the route heads northwards joining the track bed of the disused railway to Mundesley.

Canal walk This short circular walk starts at M.i. North Walsham and heads out to and along the North Walsham and Dilham canal.

Pigney's Wood
Norfolk Wildlife Trust's woodland and wetland

North Walsham & Dilham Canal is a unique sailing canal once nearly nine miles long, stretching from Antingham ponds to Wayford Bridge. Opened in 1826, closed in 1934 today it's slowly being restored by volunteers. Footpaths run along its bank between Bacton Road (Royston bridge) and Ebridge Mill. Boat trips are available on some weekends too.
www.nwdct.org

Sadler's Wood on the edge of town, ideal for dog walks, nature rambles and adventures.

Bacton Wood (Witton Woods) for orienteering, walking, horse riding and cycling.

Bryant's Heath (Felmingham Heath) is a Site of Special Scientific Interest west of North Walsham.

Weavers' Way runs 57 miles between Great Yarmouth and Cromer and is named after the weaving industry which shaped the local landscape of the Medieval Period. From the town centre head for Stalham and Yarmouth to the east, to Aylsham and Cromer to the west.

1381
Site of the Battle of North Walsham

Printed information on walks are also available from M.i. North Walsham, in Vicarage Street.

